PLINKOPOP MELTDOWN

Plinko Pop Meltdown joins the TTT Games Plinko line, one of the studio’s most popular, so players already know the format and operators get a new hit in the making.

Classic Plinko drop

A ball drops through a pyramid of pegs and lands in a multiplier slot that sets the win. The rules are clear from the first drop, so players bet faster and a session fits more rounds.

Three risk levels

Low, medium and high risk set the multiplier range. One game suits both careful players and high-volatility fans, which widens the audience and holds retention across segments.

Adjustable pin rows

Players choose the number of horizontal rows and build their own board layout, so everyone can tune the game to their taste.

Reactor Bonus

The more balls reach multipliers, the closer the reactor gets to a meltdown, which launches several Free Balls onto the game field. Players always have a goal ahead of them and keep dropping balls to reach it, which means more rounds per session and longer sessions.

Multiple balls per tap

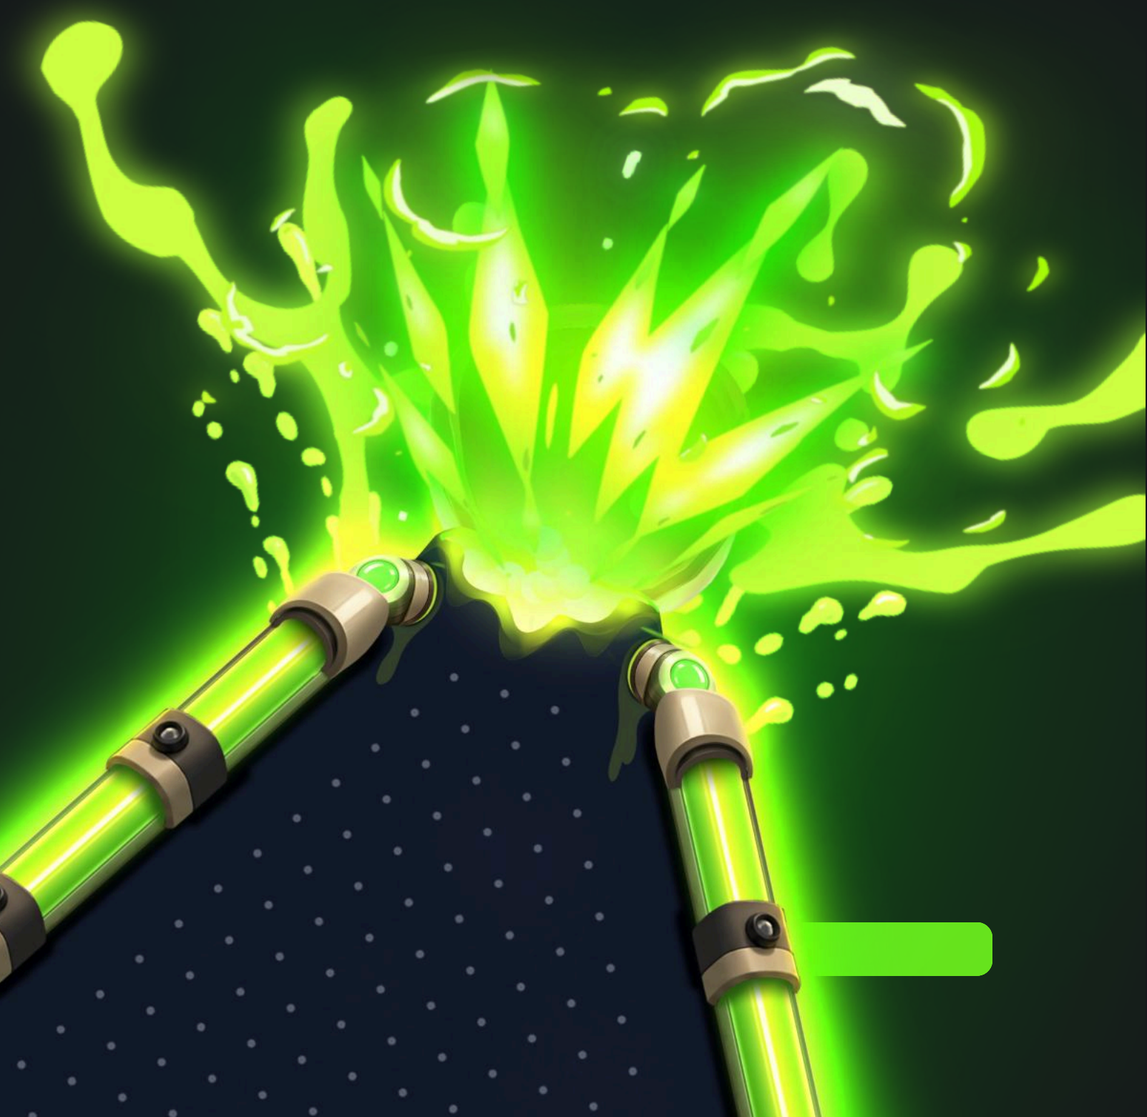

Several balls can be released at once. One click places a larger stake at a faster pace, which lifts the average bet and turnover per session.

Ranking system

By placing bets, players climb through the ranks, unlocking a fresh set of avatars with every new level.

Atomic look

The game takes place in a nuclear reactor with a glowing core and green coolant tubes. It stands out in the lobby and in promo creatives, and players recognize the Plinko line while getting something new to click on, which lifts lobby click-through.

FEATURES

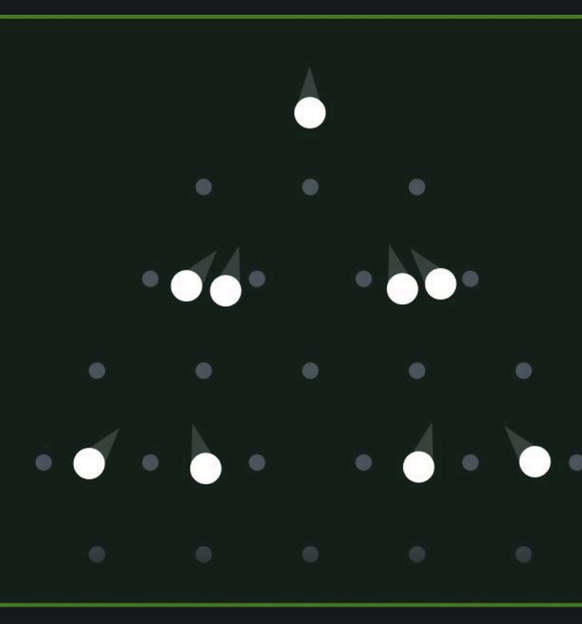

Free Bonus

Every ball dropped heats up the reactor core. When the meter hits critical, the core melts down and a batch of bonus balls is released onto the board.

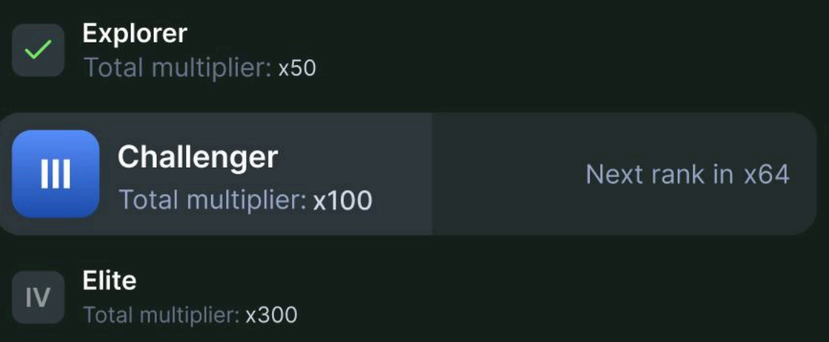

Adjustable Risk & Pin Layout

Players can switch between risk levels and customize the number of pin rows, shaping both the challenge and reward potential of every round.
